*"What we see here is the kind of comprehensive response that this disease demands."
- U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton*

Dear Nancy,

Just this afternoon, here in Hanoi, Vietnam, I was part of an exciting meeting with U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, at HealthRight's Smile of the Sun Center. Secretary Clinton came to our Center for the signing of a five year agreement with the Vietnamese government to fight HIV/AIDS. Commenting on HealthRight's US government-supported program in Vietnam, Secretary Clinton said, "What we see here is the kind of comprehensive response that this disease demands."

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton signs the U.S. - Vietnam Partnership Framework at HealthRight's Smile of the Sun Center in Hanoi.

At the Center, Secretary Clinton met with several children and adults living with HIV, including two orphans - twin 8-year-old boys - who are among the hundreds of children who access comprehensive care and support through the Smile of the Sun Center and HealthRight's other initiatives in Vietnam. Children and families living with HIV in Vietnam face intense discrimination and are often denied access to basic health, education and employment. HealthRight's programs give children a welcoming space to play, connect their caregivers to services and support, and educate communities about HIV prevention to dispel myths about how the virus is transmitted. With our local partners, we're working to reduce discrimination and ensure that children and families living with HIV can build a healthy and happy life.
